SUSTAINABILITY & ORGANICS

Focus on old vines and native varietals that reflect each region:

Average age of vineyards is 65 years old; some are over 100 years old!

Organic Farming: No pesticides or herbicides used.
EU Organic Vineyard Certification at 3 estates – 6 wines;
2023 total of 4,447 acres of Certified vineyards.

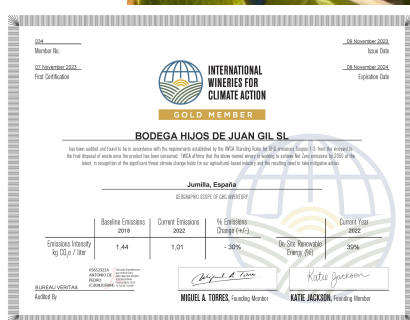

Dry Farming: Water conservation, dry farming of indigenous varietal estate vineyards.

Minimal use of Additives and Sulfites: Levels far below
EU standards; stricter than U.S.

Hand-harvesting: All vineyards

“Always farmed organically
- now certified!”

are truly words you can measure.

Technology to keep improving quality and innovating to offer better wines, while reducing the impact on the environment

- Optical sorting machines select only the best grapes

Solar Power: Solar farms provide all, or part, of the electricity used at four wineries.

Net-Zero Electricity Consumption: As of 2023, solar installations produce enough electricity to match all 11 of their wineries' consumption.

Zero-Waste Winery: Winemaking by-product made into organic compost at Juan Gil.

Lightweight Glass: Bottles for volume brands – reduced carbon footprint.

All wines in the Gil Family Estates Portfolio are produced under Vegan practices.

Gil Family Estates' practices reduce the impact on the environment & show their true love for the land!

VALUE PROPOSITION

- Gil Family Estates offers leading quality to price ratios throughout the portfolio.
- The brands have achieved over 500 notable accolades based on quality across all major publications.
- Offers an array of wine style differentiations with a sense of pride of the indigenous varietals.
- Each winery has a sense of place throughout ten major Spanish regions.
- Packaging design is impactful and distinctive with many whimsical labels.

The GFE U.S. Team is laser focused on growing the brands through its distribution partners and channels.

Jumilla wines are the ambassadors of a town of contrasts, whose personality emerges from the land. The continental climate is extreme here: summers are dry and hot with intense sun and winter is long and cold. The vineyards are between 2,000 and 2,800 feet above sea level, planted on sandy and rocky limestone soils that are very poor in nutrients, but have a great capacity to hold what little rain does fall.

JUAN GIL SILVER ORGANIC MONASTRELL

Aged Red | 12M French Oak |
100% Organic Monastrell

This flagship wine, is made with certified organic Monastrell grapes from over 40-year-old vines. The chalky and rocky limestone soils, poor in nutrients, are ideal to grow the Monastrell varietal. An intense cherry red color, aromas of ripe fruit and a long and spicy finish with evocations of toasted French oak. Tannins build to the finish. A complex wine with great balance, concentration and length.

The appellation of Jumilla, located about 60 miles inland from the southern Mediterranean coast in Murcia, is known for the Monastrell varietal, with over 80% of vineyards planted with it. The majority of our vineyards average in age between 40 and 100 years with very low yields (approx. 2,200 lb/ac).

Monastrell is a thick skinned grape that thrives in the harsh conditions of the climate and terrain, leading to wines with great structure and intense color and aromas.

ALBACEA NOW ORGANIC!

Aged Red | 4M French and American Oak | 100% Monastrell

NEW PACKAGING!

Bodegas El Nido was envisioned by the 4th generation of the Gil Family as a tribute to the old Monastrell vines, cloned from the ones originally planted by their great-grandfather, Juan Gil Giménez. These vines, some near 90 years old today, are planted on their original, un-grafted rootstocks at 1,300 to 2,300 feet. The continental climate of the region is dry, with just 10-12 inches of rainfall annually. Rocky and sandy limestone soils provide excellent drainage and allow the vineyards to be dry-farmed. Extreme diurnal temperature changes, especially in the growing season, ensure even paced ripening concentrated berries with complex aromas and flavors.

CLIO

Aged Red | 24M French & American Oak |
Monastrell & Cabernet Sauvignon

The wine exhibits a glass-coating opaque purple color. The nose is expressive with pain grille, underbrush, brier, minerality, blueberry and blackberry fruit. On the palate is a plush, opulent wine with great density, savory flavors, and a lengthy finish.

The Gil family invited renowned winemaker Chris Ringland to be the principal vintner on this project. Chris also works with Monastrell planted in his native Australia, and wanted to produce long-lived wines balancing the bold sweet fruit of the Monastrell grape with Cabernet Sauvignon.

El Nido was conceived with a higher percentage of Cabernet, whereas Clio was designed with a higher percentage of Monastrell.

INAUGURAL RELEASE ORGANIC!

Founded in 2007, the focus of Bodegas Atalaya is to produce wines from Garnacha Tintorera and Monastrell...the most emblematic grape varieties of Almansa. Since the first vintage, the goal has been to recreate the character and genuine essence of the land and the grape through 3 wines, each showcasing different proportions of Garnacha Tintorera.

Located in the eastern part of Albacete, between Valencia, Alicante and Murcia; it's a transitional zone between the Castilian meseta (plateau) and the Mediterranean Sea. The vineyards are located on poor soils, rich in limestone, at an altitude of 2,300-3,300 ft. The area has a dry continental climate with very low rainfall (less than 14 inches/year) which creates the perfect conditions to keep yields low, leading to high quality fruit with great concentration of color and flavor.

Founded in 2005, Bodegas Ateca is named after the town where it's located, Ateca, Zaragoza. The appellation, Calatayud, is a region situated along the Ebro River Valley known for producing excellent quality Garnacha. Here, they show velvety blue in a perfect contrast to a landscape of ravines, battlements and steppes that the Cid Campeador conquered. It is known as the mother of all varieties, vigorous and resistant with fruity flavors that combine in the glass with floral and balsamic memories.

Our estate vineyards of Garnacha range in age from 35 to over 100 years old and are planted in slate-based soils along the slopes of the Ateca and Moncayo Mountains at altitudes of about 3,000 feet. The climate is Continental with cold winters and hot summers with an average yearly rainfall of 12 to 21 inches (increases at higher altitudes). Rocky slate soils retain the heat of the day, radiating warmth at night when the temperatures drop drastically, especially during the ripening period. Clay loam deep below the rocky slate allows the vines to obtain moisture and the vineyards to be dry-farmed, lending to low-yields, intensity and structure. Resulting wines have a concentrated flavor with refreshing minerality and structure, reflecting the unique character of the region.

Founded in 2008, Bodegas Tridente is made up of over 40 small parcels mainly of old vine Tempranillo, the oldest of which is "Rejón" planted in 1889. They are located between Villanueva de Campean (Zamora) and El Pego (Toro), which are two separate appellations in the Spanish D.O. system. This is why the wines are bottled under the broader V.T. Castilla y León appellation, allowing them to blend the best quality grapes from both neighboring regions.

Rías Baixas boasts a number of high-quality grapes; chief among them is Albariño, occupying more than 90% of the D.O.'s vineyard area. The soils are largely granite with some chalk and clay. The earth here offers lots of minerals but few nutrients, making it perfect for wine-growing. The slopes encourage good drainage so the vines still reach deep into the earth. Given the high rainfall, drainage is important. The neighboring Atlantic Ocean provides not only rain but also humidity, so growers have traditionally favored trellising their vines with pergolas, allowing air to circulate around the grapes, thereby preventing rot and fostering ripening. Fortunately, late summer is usually the driest part of the year, providing perfect ripening conditions for harvest in October.

Bodegas Morca was founded by the Gil Family in 2015 in the appellation of Campo de Borja in Aragón, Spain. The vineyards acquired had been owned by families for generations and was planted with Garnacha vines up to 87 years-old. The Gil Family has made it their mission to care for them as if their own ancestors had been the ones to plant them, going as far as to name the vineyards after their previous owners. A reminder of the sense of responsibility to the land and the community that defines the Gil Family projects.

Known as “The Empire of Garnacha”, Campo de Borja is characterized by dense vineyards at an altitude of 1,500 to 3,000 feet above sea level. The soils are stony and ferrous clay, with good exposure to the sun.

From the heart of Rioja Alavesa comes the most endearing project of the Gil Family.

Rosario Vera is not just any winery, but the way to remember the mother and co-founder of the family label more than a hundred years ago. This is a tribute from the children and grandchildren to the woman who fought against winds and adversities for the love of her land and her family.

Founded in 2017, Rosario Vera is the newest winery from Gil Family Estates. It is located in the town of Laguardia in the D.O.Ca. of Rioja, Spain. The Rioja Alavesa area was chosen because of its proximity to the Sierra de Cantabria. The mountainous alignment isolates La Rioja from maritime influx. The precipitations, that take place are mainly in spring and autumn.

Rosario Vera's vineyards consist of small plots, planted 15 to 60 years ago. Calcareous clay soils, the climate, as well as high altitude, make a perfect place to grow vines and obtain high quality grapes. made with grapes from the heart of Rioja Alavesa from vineyards with low yields planted in limestone-clay soils.

The Honoro Vera wines are produced at Gil Family Estates wineries in four appellations in Spain: Jumilla, Calatayud, Rueda, and Rioja. In each region, the goal is to showcase the character of the native varietals. These wines are made from high quality grapes, planted at high altitudes (generally over 2,300 feet), from vines of at least 30 years of age with little production. The soil beds of limestone and sand offer very poor nutrients, which is quite ideal for this type of crop. The end result gives the wines complexity and balance that overdelivers for the price. Fruit forward, with soft tannins, and fun, modern labels.

In each bottle is a different expression of our love for the land.

The old vine vineyards are very sandy with alluvial pebbles that bring the added complexity of minerality. These high elevation vineyards experience daily temperature variations which may slow maturation and intensify flavors.

HONORO VERA RED BLEND

Young Red | 4M French & American Oak | Garnacha, Syrah, & Monastrell

Lively and enticing, this red blend impresses with ripe plum flavors and plush texture. Hints of dried figs and round tannins lend the wine depth, while crisp acidity and a peppery finish make each sip truly satisfying. Terrific value.
